INTRODUCTION

The Indian Journal of Public Administration, started in 1955, has completed twenty years of its continuous publication with the October-December 1974 issue. In addition to 834 articles, contributed by 582 authors, containing 3,393 citations, and 667 book reviews and notes, a host of other information has gone into the 13,931 pages comprising 20 volumes of IJPA.

In order to provide quick access to various contributions and to fully expose the contents, the Cumulative Index covering Volumes I-XX has been divided into seven sections.

The Author Index lists alphabetically the persons responsible for articles, research notes, comments and correspondences. The contributions by two or more authors are separately listed under each author with a statement of authors following the title. The sequence of citation in each entry is: author; title; statement of authors, if any; volume number and pages.

The Title Index lists alphabetically the titles of articles. Each title is followed by the statement of author(s) and references to the relevant volume and page numbers.

Index to Digest of Reports : Reports of Indian as well as foreign Governments and other organisations have been a special feature of the IJPA. This section lists the reports and gives references to the digests.

Subject Index : The articles and digests of reports are listed under appropriate subject headings. The entries under each subject are arranged alphabetically.

Index to Book Reviews and Book Notes : The book reviews, signed or unsigned, are listed alphabetically under the names of the authors of the books. Following the bibliographic information for each item, the name of the reviewer is given. As far as possible, complete bibliographic information is provided.

Reviewer Index : The entries provide references to the authors of the book reviews, followed, in parenthesis, by the bibliographic details of the books reviewed.

Citation Index : This is an index to the works—books, articles, government publications, etc.—cited by the authors in their contributions. The bibliographic information of each cited work is followed by reference(s) to the article(s) in which the particular work has been cited. All possible effort has been made to check and complete the bibliographic information. This index provides a reading list of over three thousand standard publications in the field of public administration and allied subjects.

It is hoped that this index would facilitate the identification and location of various contributions and would also serve as reference aid for the study and research in public administration. Suggestions for improvement will be welcome.

I wish to convey my grateful thanks to Shri R.N. Haldipur, Director, and Prof. V. Jagannadham for their encouragement and support at various stages of the project.

I must add a word of appreciation for the commendable initiative taken by Shri Mohinder Singh to undertake the compilation of this Index. A special word of appreciation is also due to Shri R.N. Sharma and Smt. S. Bakshi for their dedication and hard work. I express my thanks to Shri S.S. Negi and Smt. Leela Karthikeyan for the laborious task of preparing the typescript.

I take this opportunity to thank Shri K. Venkataraman and Shri N.R. Gopalakrishnan who have been associated with the IJPA for their valuable suggestions and keen interest in the production of this publication. I am thankful to Shri Om Anand, Shri K.K. Joshi, Shri Datar Singh and Shri B.L. Bhatla for their cooperation and for efficiently handling the highly exacting task of getting this Index printed.
